FREESTYLE is an expression of program outreach by the UWSA. The week's participatory program content and theme has been developed with the idea of fostering natural connections and resonance to both the student/campus body and community members through a celebration and discovery of urban art and culture. Participants will take part in an exchange of creative resources and ideas building organic links and increased awareness towards a shared sense of campus and community life. This festival offers participants a very special opportunity to engage with a team of workshop facilitators who work at the highest and most creative levels of the local community based urban art scene.
